

The New Coöperation

It has been said that the secret of our Nation's success in the crisis of 1917 was the efficient mobilization of man power and resources—Army, Navy, Red Cross, Industry—every available energy, working in unison.

Community competition demands a similar strategy.

It demands the mobilization of every civic enterprise. The mobilization of every civic force which has an objective of its own—business, industrial, religious, educational, social, fraternal and individual citizenship.

With singleness of purpose, the efforts of these units must be directed into one great channel—that of linking town and country into the Greater Community.

This Is the New Cooperation

The interests, ambitions, pleasures, prosperity and everyday requirements of the area which is right at our borders, run in a parallel line with ours. Merged, we become a unit of double strength, double power—The Greater Community!

Few towns put forth the necessary effort to cover the business, industrial, religious, educational, social and fraternal requirements of this greater community area—although this way lie greatest possibilities!

It is the extra effort of developing the Greater Community that spells success.

A Town Is a Service Center

The Six Essential Services are:

1. Employment
2. Merchandising and Marketing
3. Transportation and Communication
4. Social and Recreational
5. Educational
6. Religious

Figures prove that the number of those who go out of town to do business is small compared to those who should—but do not—come into town to do business.

Hence, the new cooperation is the answer to the challenge—"Fortune awaits one Community in ten."

Senator J. J. Crowley's bill permitting the shipment of city inspected meat to all parts of the State without the necessity of State inspection was recommended for passage by the Assembly Committee on Public Health and Quarantine. The vote followed a bitter session, in which opponents of the bill charged meat packers of San Francisco and Los Angeles were attempting to "squeeze" out their competitors in the smaller cities by getting a virtual monopoly on the wholesale business. Opponents of the Crowley bill favored another by A. F. Jewett of Hanford putting meat inspection entirely in the hands of State inspectors, except in cities slaughtering live stock within their own limits and having their own inspection departments.

The Senate Finance Committee recommended for passage by the upper house the measure which already has passed the Assembly, providing for the establishment of a nautical school at San Francisco. An appropriation of $125,000 is provided in the bill, which will provide for a naval training ship and courses of instruction for the teaching of seamanship. The Federal Government will aid in the expenses of the school.

Plans for improving the Colton airport to make it a Class A field and which would receive full government recognition, have just been submitted to the Chamber of Commerce by Larry Cooper, who is said to have designed Mines Field in Los Angeles. Effective results of the California Committee on Public Safety campaign to promote state-wide traffic safety is reported from many quarters. Co-ordination of the various groups working to reduce the traffic accident toll is the purpose of the committee which has been organized by representatives of state departments having to do with traffic problems, the California State Automobile Association, the Automobile Club of Southern California, organizations of county traffic officials and other state-wide organizations. In view of the growing total of traffic accidents, the newly organized safety group is urging all motorists to join the state-wide campaign to protect life, limb and property on street and highway. Appeals to both adults and youngsters feature the messages being broadcast by the Committee this week. The message concerning children stresses the dangers of nipping rides and the appeal to motorists urges more careful signaling.

The first days of summer will bring back the state's annual forest fire hazard which will continue until late in the fall. With thousands of motorists vacationing and camping in the regions where a spark may cause untold damage, the California State Automobile Association, through its Touring Bureau offices, is sounding a note of caution to all who plan trips into forest country. The following summary of precautionary measures is issued by the motorists' organization:

In building campfires, clear a wide space in the timber, and make the fire in its center. Never leave a campfire unattended, and when breaking camp, be sure to first put out with water, and then cover with earth. Always extinguish cigarette, cigar and pipe ashes. These are deadly sources of forest fires. Never throw them out matches before casting them aside. In California, fire and imprisonment, may be imposed for throwing inflammable substances from moving vehicles. Care and caution are asked of everyone in this connection. All persons camping or passing through the woods are urged to ask to use extraordinary care as to smoking. You are required by law to get official permits to build a fire in national forests, and to carry ax with handle 26 or 28 inches long, head to weigh two to two and one-quarter pounds, and shovel with a handle 30 to 36 inches long, and blade eight inches wide, if camping in national forests.

While the Church of the United Brethren in Christ is holding its thirtieth quadrennial general conference in Lancaster, Pa., May 14-25, at least one meeting will be held in Isaac Long's barn, six miles northeast of the city, being the first American-born denomination. The building still stands, and is shown above as it was in 1763. It is hoped that the conference will result in the organization of the "United Church in America," composed of the United Brethren in Christ, the Reformed Church in the U. S. A. and the Evangelical Synod of North America.

Poor Grocer Heir to $67,000,000

J. L. M. Hopkins of Waynesville, Ohio, owner of a modest grocery store, still sticks his hands in the bowl for penny candy even though he just fell heir to $67,000,000 from estate of a great uncle, Mark Hopkins of San Francisco. It still seems like a story from "One of Them Swell Magazines" to the sixty-one-year-old tradesman.

HOW TO LIVE LONGER

By JOHN CLARENCE FUNK

AN INVISIBLE ENEMY

THOSE who are in a position daily to check up on accident news clippings are shocked at the number of self-inflicted deaths that are a by-product of automobile ownership.

The situation is explained because of the great difficulty which all of us experience in appreciating reality if the evidences thereof do not make themselves felt through our senses. If we can taste, see, touch, or smell a thing, we will admit its actuality. On the other hand, if these things are lacking, we work on the false assumption that they do not exist.

For example, polluted water can look, taste and smell like the pure and sparkling kind, and more frequently than otherwise does so. Bad milk is just as white and often as palatable as is the safely pasteurized or tuberculin tested raw product. Therein lies the hazard.

If the human eye had microscopic power that alone would save us from much harm. On the other hand, we would lose a tremendous amount of fun in the consciousness of all the ugly and death-dealing "bugs" with which we daily come in more or less contact. In fact such an arrangement would be decidedly unpleasant. Things, therefore, are better as they are.

To overcome the invisible enemies, nature has endowed people with common sense and the ability to exercise it by being careful. But that is exactly where we fall down.

Consider this automobile by-product, carbon monoxide. It possesses all the characteristics, and more, of a master criminal. It cannot be seen, it cannot be heard, it cannot be felt, it cannot be smelt, in fact its presence can in no way be noted by the ordinary human senses, yet its ability to slay is only exceeded by its cowardly character. If you give it a chance it creeps up like a thief in the night and promptly makes a funeral of you.

During the cold season foolish people persist in starting their automobiles in closed garages. Not being satisfied with the chance of being killed by this practice others will insist upon tinkering with their running machines under the same conditions. And it is these practices that are daily responsible for the array of headlines which notify the world of the lethal power of carbon monoxide.

It may be a little chilly with a ga rage door open; indeed it may be cold. But what's a little weather compared to a few bunches of flowers that you will be unable to smell. Beware of carbon monoxide if you value your life.

FALSE OR TRUE?

ONLY forty-five million tooth brushes are sold in North America annually. And there are more than one hundred and fifteen million people to use them. So figure it out for yourself!

However, it is fair to assume that you are "sold" to the tooth brush habit. All right. But how much further do you go?

Formerly, the dentist was reluctantly visited only when something went wrong with the teeth. So long as everything felt all right it was properly assumed that everything was all right. But we are educated now. We know better. Are we not informed that neglected teeth create disease and abbreviate life. Have we not repeat edly heard that gastric ulcers, kidney infections, rheumatism, neuritis and our ancient and powerful enemy, heart disease, can sometimes be traced directly to infected incisors, canines or molars? Certainly, we have. And there the matter ends for a good proportion of us. We immediately lapse into the Victorian style of "putting it off" until something hurts.

By all means clean your teeth with an approved tooth paste, but don't attempt to delegate to your favorite brand the functions and work of your dentist. It would be very nice to be able thus to slide out from under that little electric buzzer which plays such a shivering tune while one holds on to the arms of the dentist's chair waiting for a nerve to be jolted along. But the buzzer and the man behind it are essential. After all, the discomfort which is usually not so bad as anticipated, is a small price to pay for a good set of your own teeth and the health insurance for which they stand.

Twice a year, then, to your dentist. Put it up to him. It's his job. Your's is to see that you get there and that he is bending over you once every six months. If delayed a longer time than this things may happen to you which will be difficult to remedy. Taking chances does not pay.

An extra hint: "Store teeth" are poor substitutes for the real thing. Those who start in young enough to pay a semiannual visit to their dentist in all probability will never be compelled to "play false."

John Volpiano was given the post of assistant. It is the intention of the department to make a more careful patrol of the roads of the district this summer in the interest of greater safety from fire and greater cleanliness of the roadside.
Roy N. Bishop and family took up their residence for the summer at their home here on Saturday. Mr. Bishop has just completed an 80,000 gallon storage water tank. He has brought six of his saddle horses from the city.
Mrs. Emma Andreen left for Tulsa, Oklahoma, with her son, Mayo, on Sunday. She will be away for two or three months.

In the sum of $50,300 was heard. The jury was impaneled and all the evidence presented in forty-five minutes. The jury deliberated for thirty minutes and brought in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $2500. The defense failed to put in any evidence. The plaintiff presented only a few witnesses.

CARD OF THANKS
Mrs. Emma Andreen wishes to extend her heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness, messages of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings received from her many friends in her bereavement for the loss of her beloved husband, Neils Andreen.

cisco would doubtless remain one borough unit.

In a discussion of the borough set-up, it was pointed out by William H. Narry that the committee should consider what should be those governmental functions of strictly borough nature, those of a nature involving the entire consolidated area, and those on the borderline between the two. This once having been determined, he added, it would be easier to make a suggestion.

Vice-Chairman Maillard suggested that a special committee to consider the subject of education in one of its further details should be set up, with Jesse H. Steinhart, chairman, and that the advice of university representatives as well as of representatives of the State Department of Education should be sought in connection therewith. Vice-Chairman Maillard also stated that at the proper time a sub-committee

After considerable discussion as to the mechanics of carrying on further work of the San Francisco-San Mateo Consolidation Committee, the acting secretary was instructed to make a progress report to the board of directors of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, at whose expense the San Francisco-San Mateo Survey was made and at whose instance the consolidation committee was appointed.

Meetings of the committee in the immediate future will take up further duties of the mechanics of operation of fire protection, following the rendering of a report requested of the fire department officials of the two counties some weeks ago, and discussion with the agricultural group of San Mateo county.

FARM POULTRY

COCCIDIOSIS IS EASY TO CONTROL

Success Depends to Large Extent on Recognition.

Success in controlling coccidiosis depends to a large extent on immediate recognition of the affected chicks, points out J. C. Taylor, associate poultry specialist at the New Jersey College of Agriculture, Rutgers university, New Brunswick.

It is possible for chicks to become infected with coccidiosis at any time during the growing period, but the disease generally makes its appearance when the birds are between four and eight weeks old. Chicks that have coccidiosis will stand around near the stove or in the corner of the brooder house with their eyes closed and wings down. The beaks and legs of the affected chicks will be white. To diagnose coccidiosis definitely, it is a good plan to cut open one or two of the affected chicks. The ceca, or two blind pouches of the intestines, of diseased chicks will be greatly enlarged and filled with a hard, cheesy mass. When such conditions are found, steps should be taken to stop the spread of the disease.

The disease is spread principally through the droppings of the infected chicks, and for this reason the brooder house should be cleaned every five days. Keep the chicks off the bare ground around the brooder house by moving the house to a new location. In some cases where the house cannot be moved it is a good practice to confine the chicks to the brooder house.

It has been found that feeding plenty of milk is a great help in controlling coccidiosis. The following ration composed of 40 per cent milk has proved valuable for use at the time of the outbreak; 40 pounds dried skim milk or buttermilk, 30 pounds ground yellow corn, 20 pounds ground rolled oats, and 10 pounds wheat bran. This mash should be given the chicks as soon as the disease is recognized and kept before them as long as they appear affected. The scratch grain should be greatly reduced so that all chicks will be compelled to eat the mash. Provide plenty of hopper space so the chicks can eat without crowding. When all symptoms of the disease disappear, gradually change the ration to the regular feed that the chicks were given at the time of the outbreak.

Gravelly Soil Is Most Desirable for Sites

Poultry yards and the sites for poultry houses should be selected with a view to dryness and shelter. A sandy, gravelly soil is most desirable for this purpose, while the lay of the ground should be such as to provide a free natural drainage. If the topography is of such a nature as to render the latter difficult or impossible, recourse must be had to some artificial means of securing dryness. Excessive moisture of the environment is always objectionable from the standpoint of poultry production, while furthermore the presence of surface water, which birds are apt to drink, must be regarded as a very serious source of mischief. For this reason, pools and puddles, filled wagon ruts or open drains should never be tolerated in yards used for poultry.

Making Plans Now for Improvement of Flock

As the returns from the flock depend largely upon the number of eggs laid, we must first get better stock. This means stock with the ability to lay more eggs bred into them. In the case of farm flocks, this may be brought about by improving the present flock or by the purchase of new foundation stock. The method that appeals to the true poultryman is the former. Starting with what you have, provided it is of a standard breed, it is possible to see a marked change in a few years. This may be brought about without the use of the trapezoid, although exact records will hasten the process of improvement.

Some Chicken Don'ts

- Don't use eggs for hatching from hens that have laid heavily all winter.
- Don't start the hatching season with any old rooster.
- Don't use pullet eggs for hatching.
- Don't run away with the idea that one rooster is good for more than fifteen to twenty hens.
- Don't feed too heavy with meat while you are saving eggs for hatching.
- Don't keep eggs over ten days.

Best First Feed

Sour skim milk or buttermilk is the best first feed for baby chicks, but they should be given no feed until they are from forty-eight to seventy-two hours old. To feed chicks too early may cause common white diarrhea. After the first feed of sour milk or buttermilk give a chick grain consisting of equal parts of fine cracked corn and cracked wheat or rolled oats. An amount of scratch feed should be fed five times a day which can be cleaned up in 15 minutes.

Lice Are Enemies

Lice are a great annoyance to sitting turkey hens and are one of the worst enemies of young poults. To prevent their getting a foothold, the hen should be dusted thoroughly with some good lice powder before she is placed on the nest, and then the hen and nest should be similarly treated once a week for the first three weeks of the incubation period. The nesting material should be kept clean, and if the eggs become dirty they should be washed.

Probing Facts of Fatness

The hereditary fatness, but of mice not human beings, is undergoing investigation at Leland Stanford university. Dr. C. H. Danforth of the department of anatomy, points out in the Journal of Hereditary that yellow mice are almost always fatter than their gray, white or spotted brothers or sisters. They are not only fatter but seem to have much greater resistance and ability to survive on a restricted diet than their skinnier confreres. It seems probable, says the scientist, that the fat is stored in a manner to make it readily available in time of need. Further studies are in progress to ascertain the ratio in which the mice that are fat and yellow transmit their qualities to their offspring.

Resort Guests Gamble on Direction of Wind

The management of one of the hotels at a well-known seaside place which figures as a winter resort has devoted a huge wall space in the lobby to an illuminated weather vane that flashes the exact range of the veering flaw, as it blows now north, now south. Daily, crowds cluster about this weather clock and watch the little lights flicker the slightest turn of the vane as it ticks off the slightest wind whinny. The more ingenious guests, (on rainy days) have invented a mild form of roulette and gamble on which light will show next, or how many times "north" is apt to flash on as against "northwest," "south," as against "southwest," etc. Broken-hearted boys who have played a losing game against the elements have been known to rush out in the rain, after especially heavy losses, and drown their sorrows.-Washington Star.

WHAT DR. CALDWELL LEARNED IN 47 YEARS PRACTICE

A physician watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the system and is not habit forming. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for anybody's system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly.

Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to the nearest druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.
